Visiting Pre-doctoral Fellow: An individual who is a current doctoral degree-seeking graduate student from another institution who is studying at Northwestern for a short period, working with faculty to learn research techniques or to use specialized facilities. Visiting Pre-doctoral Fellows are not employed or paid a salary by Northwestern, nor do they have Northwestern student status. In some cases, a Living Allowance may be provided.

Visiting Research Collaborator: An individual who may periodically visit Northwestern in order to learn research techniques, use specialized facilities and/or collaborate with Northwestern faculty. A Visiting Research Collaborator must have current, paid employment at the start-up company of an existing Northwestern faculty member. A Visiting Research Collaborator cannot simultaneously have Northwestern faculty, staff or student status. Visiting Researcher Collaborators are appointed for only one year at a time and must show documentation of paid employment at the time of initial appointment. These appointments are renewable; the Visiting Research Collaborator must provide updated documentation of paid employment at the Northwestern faculty start-up company prior to each reappointment.

Visiting Scholar: An individual sponsored or employed elsewhere, usually by another university, industry or government agency. Visiting Scholars are at Northwestern for one year or less; this appointment may be renewed. Visiting Scholars are not paid a salary or employed by Northwestern. Visiting Scholars are usually paid by their sponsoring organization. In some cases, a Living Allowance may be provided.

Policy/Procedures

I. General Information
The Office for Research (OR) is responsible for approving the following categories of appointments\(^1\) as Research Visitors to Northwestern University:

1. Research Affiliates;
2. Visiting Pre-doctoral Fellows;
3. Visiting Research Collaborators; and
4. Visiting Scholars.

Individuals granted these appointments are invited to Northwestern University for a defined period of time to study with Northwestern faculty, learn research techniques, use specialized facilities, and/or collaborate with faculty or other principal investigators.

Research Visitors are neither employees nor students of Northwestern University; Research Visitors can never hold any other concurrent position at Northwestern. Research Visitor appointments requiring co-terminus employment by, or sponsorship of, an external entity must be terminated as soon as such employment or sponsorship ends. There may be additional restrictions on appointments for individuals who are Foreign Nationals, depending upon the individual’s visa status.

Under certain circumstances, Visiting Scholars and Visiting Pre-doctoral Fellows may be provided with a Living Allowance. Such funding may never be tied to services rendered to Northwestern. Research Affiliates and Visiting Research Collaborators may not receive a Living Allowance.

Although not Northwestern employees, Visiting Pre-doctoral Fellows may be supported by sponsored program funds provided by Northwestern to their home institution through a subcontract. See “Visiting Pre-doctoral Students from Other U.S. Institutions of Higher Education and Northwestern Sponsored Programs” for additional information.

II. Appointment Requirements

A. Appointment Start Date

Research Visitors cannot start at Northwestern until the OR has finalized the appointment and an official start date has been determined. The official start date must always be later than the approval date of the appointment. Provision of a Northwestern NetID, email, Wildcard, parking and/or other privileges may not be granted before formal approval of the appointment.

B. Foreign Nationals

If the appointee is a Foreign National, the individual must have an appropriate visa as required by the United States Department of State. This visa must be active for the entire time the visitor will hold a Northwestern appointment. The International Office provides assistance in obtaining the necessary visa to extend an offer for a Foreign National to be appointed as a Research Visitor. As obtaining a visa is a lengthy process, the International Office should be contacted as early in the appointment process as possible.

C. Background Checks and Restricted Party Screening

Conducting individual background checks helps to ensure the protection of the University community, and property and information of the University. Research Visitors are subject to background checks, including:

- Federal, state, and local criminal checks
- Sex offender registry check
- Education check
- Restricted party screening

Northwestern reserves the right to limit or refuse access to Research Visitors based on the results of background checks.

As specified in the Implementing Procedure for this policy, Northwestern conducts restricted party screenings to ensure compliance with various federal regulations. Certain individuals as well as entities may be screened against various Restricted Party Lists to ensure that extending an invitation to visit is appropriate and within the law. No person or entity who is identified as a match against these lists should be invited to Northwestern until the Office for Export Controls Compliance (OECC) is informed and, in consultation with other offices as appropriate, has approved the visit. Once OECC is informed, the appropriate steps will be undertaken to ensure that Northwestern will remain in compliance with the regulations, which may involve not moving forward on the visiting appointment or proceeding with an understanding that the responsible Principal Investigator, with oversight from the relevant department and/or school, exercise due diligence in ensuring that the appointment is managed in compliance with the regulations. Additionally, there are restrictions upon activities involving certain countries subject to embargoes enforced by the U.S. Department of the Treasury. OECC should always be consulted to determine whether the citizenship or other ties of a Research Visitor to an embargoed country or a restricted entity implicate such restrictions.

D. Medical Insurance

As specified in the Implementing Procedure for this policy, all Research Visitors at Northwestern must have valid medical insurance throughout the term of their appointment. It is the responsibility of the unit requesting the Research Visitor's appointment to make certain that the Research Visitor and any accompanying family member(s) have adequate medical insurance coverage during the full period of the appointment. International Research Visitors subject to the Department of State’s Exchange Visitor Program may obtain medical coverage through the Office of Risk Management’s Visiting Scholar Plan. Domestic Research Visitors are not eligible for the Visiting Scholar Plan and must obtain appropriate coverage through their home institution, employer or other avenues (marketplace exchanges, Medicare, etc.) Research Visitors wishing to utilize their own medical insurance must submit a waiver request form to the Office of Risk Management for review and approval.

E. Benefits Eligibility

Research Visitors are not eligible for University employee benefits, including but not limited to paid holidays, paid vacation, paid sick leave, long- or short-term disability, life insurance, educational assistance and tuition plans, and/or retirement plans. Additionally Research Visitors are not entitled to benefits as defined in the Illinois Workers’ Compensation Act.

Research Visitors are eligible for a Northwestern NetID, email, Wildcard, library privileges, reduced ticket prices for various athletic and cultural events, access to University recreational facilities and use of the campus shuttle service. Research Visitors are eligible to obtain a parking pass for access to University facilities pursuant to payment of University parking fees.

F. Research and Laboratory Safety

Northwestern is committed to providing a safe environment for all members of the community engaged in research. All Research Visitors, regardless of academic discipline, are required to complete the Research and Laboratory Safety Form prior to their start date. The Office for Research Safety (ORS) will review all forms. If it is determined that the Research Visitor will be engaging in research requiring training in safe laboratory practices, ORS will require the Research Visitor to participate in the appropriate training before being allowed to enter a lab or perform any research. Research Visitors engaging in research within laboratories may also be required to sign a liability waiver/release.

G. Human and Animal Research

As specified in the Implementing Procedure for this policy, additional policies and training are applicable to Research Visitors engaged in research utilizing human participants or animals in research. Visit the Institutional Review Board Office and Institutional Committee on Animal Use and Care Office for additional information.

H. Compliance with Northwestern Policies

Research Visitors are required to comply with, and should familiarize themselves with, all Northwestern University policies. These are available here: http://policies.northwestern.edu. Two important compliance elements require the following:

- Research Visitors, regardless of citizenship or place of residence, must complete the Department of Children and Family Services (DCFS) Mandatory Reporting form. This form acknowledges the individual’s status as a mandated reporter, indicating that he or she understands the requirement to make a report to the Illinois DCFS Hotline whenever there is reasonable cause to believe that a child known to the individual in his or her professional or official capacity, may be abused or neglected.

- To help keep the Northwestern community safe from sexual violence and sex discrimination, Research Visitors are required to complete the University’s “Preventing Sexual Misconduct & Sex Discrimination” online course: http://www.northwestern.edu/sexual-misconduct/prevention/online-educational-course.html

Failure to comply with these policies may result in sanctions, including termination of the appointment. While at Northwestern, Research Visitors are also required to abide by all applicable policies of their sponsoring entity.

I. Appointment Termination

The Vice President for Research has the authority to terminate the appointment of any Research Visitor at any time for any reason. In situations where a Research Visitor is charged with violation of Northwestern policy, the Vice President for Research, in consultation with others as appropriate, may decide to terminate the appointment immediately. The decision of the Vice President for Research is final.
